

LOCAL MILITARY MATTERS.

THE ENROLLMENT.

Under the superintendence of Judge Advocate-General Anthon, the enrollment of all persons subject to the draft is being pushed forward vigorously, and the work promises to be done so thoroughly as to leave little cause for complaint, and to allow no chance whatever for evasion. During the first part of last week and the week previous Gen. Anthon commenced the work by appointing enrolling officers. There were, of course, hundreds of applicants for the positions, but only those succeeded who were men of good character and bore recommendations from the members of the Senatorial Military Committee and other prominent citizens. Political applications were entirely ignored. After taking the oath the enrolling officers were provided with the necessary books and sent forth to their work.

The headquarters of the enrolling office are located on the second floor of the spacious building No. 82 Broadway, a few doors below Wall street, where a small army of clerks are at present employed day and night.

We give a brief description of the manner in which the work is conducted:

First comes the enrolling officers, of whom there are upward of 240—one for each election district in the city. These officers make a record of every person residing or doing business in their districts—name, age, occupation, condition, remarks. Record is also made of unoccupied buildings. Twice a day each officer is under orders to report to headquarters.

Second are the record and distributing clerks, whose duties are to receive the reports from the enrolling officers, and copy all the names and memo-mands in appropriate books.

Third: The complaint department keeps four men busy from morning until night. It is the duty of these officers to hear and make a record of all complaints from citizens or enrolling officers, and, if necessary, send them to the police.

Fourth comes the copying department, which employs a large number of scriveners. They receive from the record and distributing clerks the various books, and copy the same by Wards.

Fifth is the examining department, the clerks in which compare in the most careful manner all the books, naming names where they appear twice, and making other important corrections.

Sixth is the special enrollment police whom duties we are not at liberty to make public.

A private room at the rear of the building is occupied by Judge Advocate-General Anthon, who superintends the entire work, and settles any vexing questions that may arise. He is determined—and no one who sees the manner in which he attends to business can doubt it—to vigorously execute the duty assigned him with due vexation or annoyance to the public as possible. A constant watch has to be kept over the enrolling officers, to see that they do their duty without fear or favor. As yet only two have proved derelict—one took a bribe for which he has been locked up, and the other went to a place very late at night, and raised a great row about getting names. Many attempts have been made to deceive and mislead the enrolling officers, but they cannot fail to be exposed, and when brought to light the guilty parties will be punished. The conscription law not only provides for the enrollment of able-bodied citizens, but it provides also a severe punishment for those seeking to avoid the draft themselves or to shield others. Several deceptions have been exposed. The bookkeeper of a leading gas company when called upon by the officer furnished a correct list of names of the employees, but gave number of fictitious addresses. He was arrested, and held for examination. Several persons have been apprehended for refusing to answer the officer, but a short detention in the cells at headquarters brought them to reason.

It is probable that the list will be published as soon as completed so that every one can give in the names of persons omitted. From present indications the number of names enrolled in New-York will not fall short of 175,000.
